

News Brief: Workday Named Best in KLAS for ERP for the Seventh Consecutive Year

PLEASANTON, Calif., February 7, 2024 -- Workday, Inc. (NASDAQ: WDAY), a leader in enterprise cloud applications for finance and human resources, today announced that KLAS Research named Workday as Best in KLAS 2024 in enterprise resource planning (ERP). This marks the seventh consecutive year Workday Financial Management, Workday Human Capital Management \(HCM\), and Workday Supply Chain Management \(SCM\) for Healthcare have earned top rankings in the Software and Services categories for ERP.

Amid global supply chain disruptions, decreasing patient revenues, clinical talent shortages, and more, healthcare organizations are challenged to deliver quality care within increasingly tight operating margins. Workday brings together finance, HR, and supply chain transactions in a unified, cloud-based system to provide leaders with actionable operational insights that help improve efficiencies, deliver engaging employee experiences, and drive organizational agility. With AI and ML embedded into the core of the platform, Workday empowers healthcare organizations to automate tasks, gain deeper insights, and control costs without impacting the quality of patient care.

“Healthcare organizations need to ensure the partners and solutions they invest in deliver value by helping them manage operational costs, boost supply chain resilience, and empower clinical talent,” said John Kravitz, vice president and head of healthcare industry, Workday. “Our recognition as Best in KLAS – for the seventh straight year – is indicative of our commitment to supporting customers on their cloud transformation journeys and providing them with solutions that help drive the future of health.”

The Best in KLAS report recognizes software and services companies that excel in helping healthcare professionals improve patient care. The 2024 Best in KLAS report highlights the top-performing healthcare IT solutions as determined by extensive evaluations and conversations with thousands of end users. The Best in KLAS winners will be honored at the upcoming HIMSS Global Health Conference & Exhibition, taking place March 11-15, 2024, in Orlando.
